ABOUT US

Harmony 4 All is a youth-led nonprofit organization working to advance educational equity through access to high-quality music education for underserved New York City students. The organization is driven by the belief that no child should be excluded from the joy, growth, and opportunity that music provides because of financial hardship. This commitment aligns with leading music education equity organizations such as Education Through Music (ETM) and NYC public school partners.

Our Co-Founders

Bianca Quddus

Bianca Quddus is a clarinetist and youth leader committed to advancing equity and community well-being through music. She graduated from The Bronx High School of Science in 2025 and completed her musical training at The Juilliard School Preparatory Division in 2024.

She has performed at Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, and the United Nations, and serves as a Global Youth Ambassador with the Foundation of Support for the United Nations. Bianca is currently studying Neuropsychology at University of Massachusetts Amherst, with an expected graduation in 2029.

Joshua Quddus

Joshua Quddus is a saxophonist and youth leader focused on expanding equitable access to music education. He is currently a senior at Hunter College High School, graduating in 2025, and completed his musical studies at The Juilliard School Preparatory Division in 2024.

Joshua has performed at Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, and the United Nations, and also serves as a Global Youth Ambassador with the Foundation of Support for the United Nations. In 2026, he will begin studying Econometrics at Columbia University, with an anticipated graduation in 2030.

OUR MISSION IN ACTION

Harmony 4 All focuses on:

- Expanding access to instruments and music programs
- Partnering with schools serving low-income and Title I populations
- Using performance as a platform to raise awareness and build community
- Supporting sustainable music education pathways in public schools

Harmony 4 All uses public concerts to both serve communities and promote music education awareness.

WHY THIS WORK MATTERS

Music education is often the first program cut in under-resourced schools

Harmony 4 All addresses this inequity by:

- Removing financial barriers
- Strengthening school music infrastructure
- Expanding student participation
- Elevating youth leadership
- Building public-private partnerships

The result is long-term educational enrichment, not short-term charity

LOOKING AHEAD

Harmony 4 All will continue to:

- Expand instrument access in Title I schools
- Grow school and nonprofit partnerships
- Increase public concerts that serve as community cultural access points
- Advocate for music as a core component of equitable education
